WELCOME TO TRITON COVE STATE PARK

Triton Cove State Park is situated on the Olympic Peninsula, on the west side of Hood Canal. This small park provides great views of Hood Canal and excellent off- and near-shore fishing access.

Visitors can enjoy a variety of recreational activities, including boating, scuba diving, fishing, picnicking, shellfish harvesting and bird watching. The boat launch is accessible to people with disabilities.

Park history

In the 1930s, the area was the location of a gas station and a small country store. After World War II, the area was developed as a trailer-park fishing resort with a boat launch. Though the property changed hands a few times, it remained a fishing resort until the state purchased it in two parcels in 1990. Since then, the boat launch has been rebuilt. The area continues to be upgraded and developed to include more features.

Park amenities and facilities

Triton Cove State Park offers the following amenities and facilities:

- Three unsheltered picnic tables, available first come. first served.
- Vault toilet
- One boat ramp and 100 feet of handling dock (watercraft launch permit required)
